

Baby Mixup Probe Hits Nurses

Full reports, in writing, were demanded today from all City Hospital employees directly or indirectly involved in the unprecedented baby "mix-up" which sent the proud mother of an infant son home with another mother's new-born daughter.

With the swapping of the babies untangled and rectified today, Dr. James W. Manary, City hospital superintendent, began the rigid investigation.

After a conference with hospital trustees, Dr. Manary said:

"Disciplinary action will be taken as soon as we have ascertained full facts of the case.

"It appears now that the girls just made a mistake."

Although Dr. Manary's statement indicated that neither doctors nor officials of the hospital would be blamed, investigation continued along all possible lines.

Happy in possession of her own baby, a handsome boy, Mrs. Kathleen Lisenby of Kenrick street, Brighton, said today:

"The shock was terrible when

Bomb Kills 4 In Palestine

JERUSALEM, July 8 (AP)—A bomb blast at Jerusalem's busy Jaffa gate today killed four Arabs and wounded 15 in a new outbreak of deadly terror which Great Britain is trying to crush with warships and troop reinforcements.

The bomb tore apart a bus in the crowded Arab station and a vegetable market in the shadow of David's Tower.

The vehicle was filled with Arab countryfolk about to leave for Hebron.

Roosevelt Boosts Bulkley in Ohio

MARIETTA, O., July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt stepped into the Ohio Democratic primary today with a word of praise for Senator Robert Bulkley.

Bulkley, candidate for renomination, was the only individual mentioned by the President in his first address of a transcontinental speaking tour—except in his introduction.

Introduced by former Governor George White, Bulkley's opponent, to a crowd celebrating the 150th anniversary of the settling of Northwest Territory the chief executive said:

"Governor Davey, Senator Bulkley, Chairman White—"

Later in the body of his speech.

the President said:

1 Dead, 6 Hurt In Plane Crash

BILLINGS, Mont., July 8 (INS)—Mrs. M. F. Mackie of Evanston, Ill., was killed today and six other passengers were injured, none seriously, when a Northwest Airlines plane crashed at the takeoff here on its run from Seattle to Chicago.

The plane was demolished in its plunge at the Billings airport. The tail of the ship was smashed and both motors were torn off and hurled into a ravine 75 feet deep.

Mrs. Mackie, whose husband was injured, was hurled from the plane into the ravine and landed on a rocky ledge 25 feet below the rim. She died half an hour after being taken to a hospital.

Ten persons, including Pilot Walter Bullock of Minneapolis and co-pilot Lester Doan, were aboard the liner when it crashed.

The plane had risen only a short distance above the ground after taking off on its eastward hop when it suddenly nosed to earth. The cause was not immediately determined.

Two battalions of British troops—at least 1600 men—rushed from Egypt to reinforce the 10,000 British soldiers, armed police and aviators who had failed to halt the bloody reign of terror which Jewish leaders feared might develop into civil war between Jews and Arabs.

Officers planned to put the area under naval control. Marines with bared bayonets and loaded rifles were ready for emergency landings to occupy Kingsway and Center street, waterfront danger zones in Haifa.

Eleven squadrons of the British air force kept their machines tuned for quick flights and quick bombings of any town or village where fresh disorder might burst out.

MARINES ON PATROL

British marines patrolled Haifa today, into which Arabs were pouring for religious observances.

One Jewish store in Haifa was burned down. Three Jews were seriously injured when attacked by men wielding iron bars in a mixed quarter of the city.

The trouble started nine days ago with the hanging of a 19-year-old Jew for ambushing an Arab bus and has become the most serious in recent Palestine history.

Military authorities stationed soldiers in every village throughout a wide area in northern Palestine.

The government broadcast a warning that High Commissioner Sir Harold Alfred MacMichael would delegate his powers to the military commander-in-chief if fresh rioting should break out.

TRIBES MASSED

Authorities rounded up several Revisionist leaders and interned them in the concentration camp at Acre, near Haifa.

Arab tribes from Trans-Jordan were reported massed on the Palestine frontier. In a four-hour pitched battle British soldiers fought 600 Arabs said to have come from that section east of Palestine which forms a part of Britain's Palestine mandate, but is governed by Arabs. Arab casualties were put at 13.

The former Renee Bullard, 32, one-time Boston opera star, today was reported in a state of near-collapse in New York where she learned of the persecution suicide in Vienna of her husband, Baron George Strakosch von Feldringen.

The wealthy Austrian industrialist took his own life when Nazis stripped him of his financial and sugar holdings and placed him under "protective custody."

The baroness recently escaped the Nazis and came to this country to await settlement of her husband's affairs and his migration to the United States. They were married at Norwalk, Conn., in 1930.

Boston-born, the former opera star has an aunt living in Boston and was expected to come here as soon as she learns of funeral arrangements for her husband. Both she and he were traveling when Nazis seized his sugar concern, the largest in Austria.

He elected to go back to Vienna to salvage part of his fortune and recently insisted that his wife flee the country through aid of the American consul.

Franco Forces In 3 Attacks

Hugging the coastline, one division of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's men swept on past Nules and occupied the village of Vee.

In the Tales sector, the insurgents claimed they occupied important heights south of Puntala peak, also Villavieja Castle. It is still disputed whether Franco's army has captured Villavieja itself, west of Nules.

Fine Is O.K., But He Balks At a Keeper

It was all right with Paul Dever, 42, of Myrtle street, Lynn—he pleaded guilty in Lynn district court today to charges of tampering with a fire engine at the scene of a fire, and was all set to take his punishment, until—

"This is a special statute," Judge P. A. Keady said. "Under it, I fine you $25, and I'm required by law to appoint a keeper for you for the next three months."

"Wha-a-at?" exclaimed Dever. "A keeper?"

"Just so," the judge nodded.

"I appeal," said Dever.

Judge Keady set bail at $200, and Dever to jail when it wasn't forthcoming.

According to police, Dever pulled out the ignition wires out from under the hood of a fire engine at a fire on Astor street, Lynn, July 2.

Elopers Welcomed Home After Southern Hitchhike

ROCKLAND, July 8—A hitchhike trip to Elkton, Md., elopers' paradise, a quick marriage by a justice of the peace and then a free honeymoon jaunt through Southern states—

That was the nine-day adventure of the former Anne Helen Fortune, 18, of Malden street, Boston, and her new husband, Leo G. Fontaine, also 18, of this town.

The young couple revealed their elopement when they returned here today to receive the blessing of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Fontaine, with whom they will make their home temporarily.

"Of course we'll have a real church wedding now to please everybody," Leo explained happily. "But for romance there's nothing like the trip we took."

The elopement was successful, both bride and bridegroom deof their trip was made in a rainy spell, and they got drenched while "thumbing" rides.

Massachusetts and Connecticut weren't so hot for rides, they said, but once in New York, why, it was just pie.

Kind motorists took them swiftly to Elkton. They continued on to North Carolina via the "waving thumb" with their two heavy suitcases.

The bride is a graduate of Bridgewater High School. Fontaine was graduated from Rockland High.

HANGS 6 STORIES In Air Falls in Life Net

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—With a leather-lunged fire lieutenant shouting instructions, blonde Muriel Strong, 24, dropped from a sixth floor hotel window into a lifenet early today.

Her left leg was broken as she crashed into an open French window in her plunge, but her condition was reported not serious.

Detective Charles McGowan said she exonerated Sidney Smith, 37, of Los Angeles, from whose room she fell.

"Don't hold him," she moaned to McGowan. "I just jumped."

HOLDS HER, DANGLING

Witnesses of the spectacular rescue coupled Smith with the firemen in credit for saving the girl's life. He held her dangling by her wrists while the firemen hurried with the lifenet.

Smith told police he was a naval supplies salesman. He was not held.

Smith said he was in New York on business and last night met Miss Strong in the hotel bar. They quarreled, he said, and he went to his room.

Some time later, he said, she appeared. He went back to bed while she sat on the window sill and continued arguing. Then, he asserted, she started out the window, screaming.

SPEED TO THE RESCUE

Smith said he jumped up and grabbed her wrists, but could not pull her back.

Fireman William McBride of a hook and ladder company next door heard the noise, saw the girl and aroused other firemen.

Nine men carried a lifenet to the second-floor setback of the hotel. Despite the interference of the open window, Miss Strong landed in the center of the net.

Lost Child Identified

Rested after a night's sleep in Somerville police station, Mary Chiarrelli, five, today went home with her aunt, Mary Faccini of Pearson avenue, Somerville.

Unable to tell officers her name, the little girl was placed under the care of the matron and earned the distinction of being the second child within a week to stay over at the police station.

She was found wandering in Highland avenue near Grove street. The girl, whose parents are dead, was believed by relatives to be staying with another aunt, police said.

Clare's Ankle Stirs Mystery

LONDON, July 8 (INS)—Clare Luce, American actress, had a bandaged ankle today, but there were varying accounts as to how she was injured.

She denied indignantly by telephone that she had accidentally shot herself. She said:

"I was with some flying friends and entered a large plane. As I was getting out the door slammed and grazed my ankle."

The Daily Mail insisted Miss Luce accidentally shot herself at target practice and quoted her to that effect.

Bartolini May Be Saved by Ad

and Joseph R. Zottoli and Attorney George R. Lourie, who are Bartolini's counsel, revealed that the "personal" is in answer to a letter—received December 1, 1937, three days after Bartolini's trial. This letter, printed in pencil, was in an envelope bearing a Dedham postmark. It had been mailed at midnight. One cent postage was due. It read:

"If you will publish a personal addressed 'Bee' and promise immunity for me and absolute protection from publicity, a letter to you will immediately follow with information that I think will help Bartolini."

It was signed "Bee."

Although this was more than seven months ago, no action was taken on "Bee's" suggestion until today.

Bartolini's lawyers professed complete ignorance of who "Bee" might be. The name, "Bee," is a woman's name or nickname, it was pointed out. However, they said, they had no knowledge of whether "Bee" is a man or a woman.

THANKS WARDEN

Bartolini, when Warden Lannigan called on him in his cell in the "Cherry Hill" section of the prison today, received the news that a commutation of sentence has been denied him calmly.

"Thank you for letting me know," he said simply.

His attorneys may be as told them he "would rather die in the chair than serve life imprisonment." Since he has been in prison his hair has turned completely gray.

Lourie and the attorneys, Zottoli said, would confer with Bartolini this afternoon to discuss "Bee's" letter with him and their efforts now to locate the sender.

Mystery figure of the Bartolini case has been the missing war veteran, John F. Lyons, described as having been a friend of Mrs. Grace Griffin Asquith, East Weymouth's merry widow, of whose murder Bartolini stands convicted.

Governor Hurley yesterday, in turning down Bartolini's plea for commutation of sentence, admitted the finding of Lyons "would shed additional light on the tragedy."

MISSING FOR MONTHS

The mere fact that Lyons has disappeared, and that therefore what he might tell remains in doubt, however, the governor held, was not sufficient to warrant commutation or a stay of Bartolini's execution.

Lyons, according to records in the case, is known to have visited Mrs. Asquith's bungalow only a couple of hours, at most, before the murder occurred. He then disappeared, failing to return home to claim his veteran's check which, investigators subsequently found, was waiting for him. This was a year ago last October.

Belief that the mysterious "Bee" might be able to throw some light on Lyons' whereabouts was one of the theories expressed today. This, however, it was admitted, was only a wild guess.

Hurley Signs Bill Changing Asylum Control

Governor Hurley today signed the bill to reorganize the state department of mental diseases. Having no emergency provision, it will become effective in 36 days.

The bill is the outgrowth of a report of a special commission which recommended many changes for better management of mental hospitals and care of the insane.

The name of the department will be changed to the department of mental health. The present setup of a commissioner and four unpaid associates is abolished and a new commissioner of mental health is given "exclusive control and supervision of the department."

The commissioner's salary remains at $18,000 a year, his term six years.

He is authorized to appoint an assistant commissioner at $7500 a year, with full power in the commissioner's absence.

This will eliminate any repetition of the situation of the past year when the former commissioner, Dr. David L. Williams, had been away from his duties a year because of illness.

Duties of trustees of mental hospitals are restricted to an advisory basis. Formerly they were legal administrative heads.

If the trustees and the commissioner order removal of a superintendent, under the new law, the superintendent has the right of appeal to superior court.

$30,000 Yearly To Mrs. Woodward

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Orator Francis Woodward of Leroy, N. Y., who settled $1,000,000 on his first wife when they were divorced in 1925, has been ordered to pay his second wife, Mrs. Mary Trust Woodward, $30,000 a year alimony.

She charged he once threw a plate of creamed chicken at her, and chased her around the room until police arrived.

Mrs. Woodward estimated her husband's fortune at between $20,000,000 and $32,000,000.

Tragedy at Sea Costs 2 Lives

NEW BEDFORD, July 8—The tragic deaths at sea of two crew members of the scallop Sankaty Head, 149 miles off Pollock Rip Lightship, were revealed today when the craft arrived in port here.

Capt. Louis A. Doucette reported to police that Albert Carpenter and Donald Souza, both of New Bedford, were dragged overboard when a lurch of the boat shot a heavy scallop dredge over the side.

The Sankaty Head cruised about the area for some time, Capt. Doucette declared, seeking a trace of the missing men. They apparently failed to come to the surface, he said.

SEADLUND DIES JULY 14

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Federal Judge John P. Barnes set July 14 today as the day on which John Henry Seadlund must die in the electric chair for kidnaping Charles S. Ross, retired Chicago manufacturer, last September.

It's a Railroad Nobody Wants

NEW HAVEN, Ct., July 8 (AP)—Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks suggested today as a remote possibility an arrangement whereby the Commonwealth of Massachusetts would take over the Old Colony Railroad "and operate it under contract or on some other basis," or the abandonment of the railroad "as a last resort."

State Official Denies Charge Of $2800 Bribe

Frank E. Riley of Swampscott, director of the commercial motor vehicles division of the department of public utilities, today flatly denied charges that he solicited and accepted bribes totaling $2800 from a Cambridge trucking company head.

Riley's denial came simultaneously with an announcement by Governor Hurley that he will order a full, public investigation of the charges.

A preliminary hearing already has been set for next Wednesday.

Author of the charges against Riley is Samuel Becker, head of the Becker Transportation Company.

"I never received any money from Becker, I never asked him for any money or anything else, and I never did anything for him except suspend his permit," Riley said.

TELLS OF PAYMENT

"Becker charges, for example, that to get his permit back he gave me $1500—a $1000 bill. He's even got a number for it—'6000075063A.' He says he drew it out of the back and gave it to me on the street, on Court street, in front of the City Hall. And he says I used it to pay, in part, for my car."

"Well, here's my car, two years old, and I can prove I bought it long before the time that Becker says this incident occurred."

"Two of Becker's employees say they paid me $100 on each of two occasions last July and August in my office on Nassau street. That's absolutely false. I wasn't even in my office during the month of August. I was on my vacation. And I was away, too, most of the month of July."

BORAH RECOVERING

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Friends of Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho said today the senator was recovering rapidly from the exhaustion which forced him to go to bed last Sunday.

The suggestion was made at the close of a two-day hearing on a petition of the Old Colony's protective committee asking for an order directing the railroad's trustees to put into effect certain economies, including the abandonment of 88 stations in Massachusetts, designed to save $695,000 annually.

UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Hincks took the petition under advisement.

Edward A. Frece, assistant attorney general of Massachusetts, who represented a group of legislators opposing the petition for abandonment, did not move to dismiss the petition, although he told the court yesterday that he would take that action.

SUGGESTS ABANDONMENT

Judge Hincks suggested that should the Interstate Commerce Commission adopt the recent examiner's report declaring unsatisfactory any of the reorganization plans so far submitted, the parties should be prepared to submit substitute plans or as an alternative, to petition for dismissal of the Old Colony proceedings "in the hope, perhaps, that some arrangement might be worked out independently with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts whereby the Commonwealth would either take over the railroad and operate it under contract or on some other basis."

As a second alternative, Judge Hincks suggested a petition for abandonment "as a last resort."

Nelson Offered Wage-Hour Post

WASHINGTON, July 8 (UPI)—Donald Marr Nelson of Chicago, Sears and Roebuck vice-president, who has already pronounced the new wage-hours set "a good bill," has been offered the post of administrator of the act. It was learned here today.

Whether Nelson will accept was not known. President Roosevelt selected Nelson for the post within the past 24 hours, reliable authority revealed.

Millions Buy Only Sad, Empty Dreams

Adela Rogers St. Johns, noted screen and fiction writer, has written the "behind the headlines" story of the life of Barbara Hutton, Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow. To Miss St. Johns, the young heiress confided her hopes and plans.

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS

(Copyright, 1938, by the Boston Evening American)

CHAPTER ONE

Barbara Hutton, Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, sat in the drawing room of her London mansion, regarding me with grave eyes.

The gray afternoon light showed how thin and white she was, a very white, very thin girl with that pallor and gravity you see only upon people who have been lately brushed by the wings of death.

We had just been upstairs to visit her small son, Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow.

Very gravely, Barbara said:

"Now, at last, I have found happiness. I know that this is safe and sure. I love my husband and he loves me. We have our son and we shall have more children. For the first time in my life, I am sure of happiness."

That was two years ago. Today, in London, Barbara Hutton has bound her husband in open court to keep the peace, on the grounds that he threatened her with bodily injury and with kidnapping her son.

DREAMS DASHED

And the count, according to the court testimony of Barbara's lawyer, has demanded $5,000,000 as his price for a divorce, declared he would "shoot down like a dog" a gentleman in London, and that he would put Barbara through three years of headline hell unless she gave him custody of their child.

Prince Frederick of Prussia, who has been mentioned in the case, denied to the International News Service correspondent that he is "the gentleman in London."

He has gone to visit his sister in Wales and the Countess and her son are together in Winfield House, the stately Georgian mansion owned by the Woolworth heiress. The Count is somewhere in London bound by $10,000 bond to keep the peace.

In those two years the happiness of which Barbara Hutton was so sure has exploded all over the place and the dollar princess is the center of a spectacular scandal and that front page publicity which she so deeply dreads.

Today she is a woman without a country. She has given up her American citizenship, she is separated from the husband who bound her by marriage to Denmark, and her little boy is a ward of the English courts.

LONGS FOR AMERICA

It is not easy for us to forgive Barbara Hutton for renouncing her American citizenship and taking her vast fortune to foreign lands.

Yet, I am sure Barbara would say "America renounced me first."

For two years ago she said to me:

"I want to go home to America. I would like to bring my son up as an American. But they do not like me in America. They misunderstand everything I do."

"They hold things against me that are not my fault. They hold things against me that I did when I was very young."

"I want to go home but I don't think they want me, so perhaps it will be better for me to stay here, where I can build a saner life for myself."

But I know that then she had no idea of giving up her right to be called an American. I know it, because she was making elaborate plans for a return, consulting with experts as to how she could win the friendship of her own people.

I believe that her change of mind, her renunciation of America, and her separation from Haugwitz-Reventlow come from the same cause—the inner story of this woman's heart which has not yet been told.

I have, engraved upon my memory, an unforgettable picture of the Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow.

HAPPY AT FIRST

Barbara and I had been having tea and he came in late. I remember how eagerly she greeted him, how glad they seemed to be over that little reunion after a few hours' separation. You could almost hear a little sigh of satisfaction—"there—everything's all right now."

They stood together before the coal fire in her bedroom, a room elegant and luxurious and feminine, done in ivory satin and white fur rugs and priceless lace.

A tall, rather severe, formal man, I thought. Immaculately groomed. Handsome in a stiff way. Much older than his wife.

Perhaps a little hard and dominating, but it was easy to see why her hand rested upon his arm with confidence, as though she liked to have it there.

Her eyes were turned up to him with a trust and contentment it was pleasant to see.

Only a few minutes before he came in we had been speaking of her first husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani. She had spoken of him, his tragic death, their romance, with kindness, with pity and with a little bewilderment.

But in spite of that you could see that she shuddered away from the mention of his name, with that inward shudder women show only when they have hidden memories too dreadful to bring into the light.

Even while she explained their romance to me for the first time, it was plain that it hurt and confused her to speak of him.

That was why it was so pleasant to see the confidence and affection with which she looked at Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow. As much as to say, I was hurt, betrayed, disillusioned—but now I am safe and sure. Now I am loved for myself alone and not for my many millions.

In that, as you will see, we come to the real tragedy of Barbara Hutton.

They were planning, she and Kurt, an evening at the movies with another young couple—the Drogo Montagus. They were to dine quietly at home and then go to see Ronald Colman in "A Tale of Two Cities." They were apparently very friendly, these two young couples.

But their plans were simple and unpretentious—an evening at the movies, a week-end in the country, a dinner with some American friends. You got the feeling of a rather, orderly existence.

The social position of the Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow seemed sure enough—she had been luncheon that day with a famed English beauty and hostess. She was to entertain later for some of the King's friends—Edward VIII was still on the throne. She didn't seem restless or ambitious about things social.

LIVED IN HEADLINES

As I went away from the stately London mansion that afternoon, I remember thinking how Barbara had changed from the millionaire Broadway playgirl, from the spectacular bride of Alexis Mdivani.

She was like a different person, so quiet, so anxious to please her husband, so—settled.

It is hard to make most people believe that $17,000,000—the sum Barbara inherited when she was 21—won't buy happiness. But Bobbie Hutton had proved it to herself.

Her life story—sometimes romantic, sometimes silly, sometimes headstrong, had been written in headlines from the day of her birth—but the real story going on behind those headlines hadn't always been known.

She was and is part of Americana—when $17,000,000 is in the alms, inexperienced hands of one young girl it is part of American history.

There had seemed to me that afternoon a dignity about the Haugwitz-Reventlow household. Barbara, I thought, has grown up. As they stood together she and her husband seemed to present a united front to the world. There wasn't anything spectacular about this thin, white young woman in the plain dark dress, a woman showing still the marks of her terrible illness following the birth of her baby, who leaned so openly now upon her husband.

It didn't occur to me then that she was under any domination.

PLANS FOR SON

There is a side of Barbara Hutton that very few people have known. Totally different from the spoiled and spectacular million-dollar baby from the 5 and 10-cent store. Totally unexpected in the girl most people think her to be.

Months later in New York I was talking with Roy Chapman Andrews, the famous writer, explorer, authority on the Orient. I told him the countess had spoken of him with admiration and affection. He said:

"Don't underestimate that young woman. Her study of Chinese art and literature, her knowledge of ancient civilizations, her interest in archeology are serious and profound."

"I'd like to have her for my assistant. She's a born explorer. If she'd been a man, she would have made her mark in that profession."

That, then, was the thing she was planning to do. She seemed to look ahead happily. Her husband had some farms in Denmark.

She didn't seem in any way deceived about them, didn't convey that they were estates of wealth or anything like that. But her husband wanted the boy to spend some time here.

Then they planned to travel a great deal. She wanted to go to the interior of China, where no white woman had been. She wanted to explore every part of the world, to see "the beginnings of things"—that was the way she put it.

"But I want my son to be an American," she said. "I want him brought up like an American boy. I would like to bring him up so that he can be rich or poor, and still be a man."

"I should like to educate him so that if he carries the burden of great wealth he will know how to do it wisely. Or if he should be poor, he could face life unafraid."

"My husband has some sound ideas on education. But he understands that I want Lance brought up as an American, and he agrees with me. Soon, I hope, we will be able to spend part of the year in America—and I hope they will be glad to see me."

It seemed to me at that time that she was completely sincere.

CLASH OVER CHILD

Yet today it is over the education and upbringing of their son that these two have separated. Barbara no longer calls America home, all these dreams are dust. The dignity I saw has been smashed and splattered with accusations and charges, with scenes, with threats.

What happened?

What destroyed that peace and security? What shattered that dignity and serious planning?

Many people in London thought that they were too "settled." He tried to hold her with too tight a rein—and Barbara had always been free, headstrong, insistent upon her own way.

SENSITIVE AS GIRL

There was one disquieting rumor which came from those who knew the situation well. The count was a comparatively poor man when he married the dollar princess. He had no fortune of his own at all.

Since he had married Barbara he had developed, they said, a passionate love of money. More and more he was attempting to control Barbara's vast wealth. He did not approve her million-dollar-a-year gifts to charity. He was gradually taking her money out of America and investing it in Europe, where he could handle it entirely.

All that, once it dawned upon Barbara, would be the one sure thing, that could destroy her trust, the one sure end of all her happiness and contentment.

Her generosity is fabulous. But it must be generosity. She has a deep and dreadful fear of being "used"—of being deceived by those who say they love her for herself and perhaps care only for her money.

That would be, in her eyes, the unforgivable sin.

SEED OF FEAR SOWN

That, you see, came to her when she was a little girl. Then the seed of that fear which has haunted her always was planted. For when she was in her teens, a fat, shy, funny little thing, with those vast millions waiting for her, someone said to her:

"Oh, well—you may be the richest girl in the world—but all that means is that somebody will marry you for your money."

"You're fat and not very pretty, and if anybody does marry you, you'll know it's for your money."

Probe Mystery Death of Beauty School Pupil

CENTRALIA, Ill., July 8 (AP)—A number of "peculiar" circumstances confronted police today as they investigated the death of a pretty 26-year-old beauty school student in a fashionable home here.

The partly clad body of Mary Britton, a bullet wound in the heart, was found on a bedroom floor last night by Elvin Satterlee, an automobile dealer.

Chief of Police William Kaelin said Satterlee told him he had rented the house several months ago and that the girl had been in Centralia with him since July 4. Satterlee related, the chief added, he had been sending her to a beauty school in East St. Louis.

"Indications point to suicide, but there's something peculiar," the chief declared.

Coroner S. D. Carrigan said he believed the woman "tore up the house in a rage and then shot herself."

BULLET MISSING

The chief said he would have ballistics experts examine the revolver found on the blood-stained bed near the body and a bullet dug from the pillow of the bed. Kaelin said he was convinced it was this bullet which penetrated the woman's heart. Satterlee identified the gun as his property, Kaelin asserted.

"Two shots had been fired from the gun, and I want to find out if both shots were fired recently," Kaelin said. "We couldn't find the other bullet. There was one cartridge which had not been fired."

NOTE ON PILLOW

Among the "peculiar" things he listed were bloodstains on the walls of the stairway, a battered and bloodstained coffee pot in a downstairs room, a broken lamp, broken china closet and other disorders downstairs.

Under a pillow was a note which read:

"I love you and you have told in love with someone else," according to Chief Kaelin.

The note was signed, "Love, Mary."

Aw, Shucks, Men on WPA Can't Wear Tux or Checks

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—When the government decided a few days ago to spend ten million dollars buying up surplus stocks of men's clothes for the needy, you could just tell that some odd situations probably would arise. They have. Bids were opened yesterday and the first oddity the officials encountered was a manufacturer who wanted to sell them tuxedos. Among 3000 samples submitted by 1800 manufacturers was a vivid green Harris tweed topcoat, followed by some highly audible check patterns. Assistant WPA Administrator Corrington Gill grunted his teeth and announced firmly that all that sort of thing, although probably chic, was out.

Then there arose the administrative question of two-pants suits. They're nice, but they were ruled out of the government's $2,000,000 shopping expedition.

Seek $50,000 Fund For Italian Home

The Italian Home for Children, Jamaica Plain, today announced plans for a state-wide $50,000 campaign to benefit the 120 orphans in the institution. The drive will begin Labor Day and end Columbus Day.

Cardinal O'Connell, honorary president of the home, was present at a meeting of the executive in charge of the campaign. Dormitory facilities for boys, four more classrooms, an auditorium, a gymnasium and an elevator are among the needs of the home.

A Letter From Senator Bridges

United States Senate COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS

Mr. Harry Kane
Kane Furniture Co.
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I was discussing recently with business and labor leaders an idea I have had for some time . . . a plan under which the merchants of this country, in co-operation with manufacturers, could relieve unemployment.

It is my thought that it is, to a large extent, the huge surplus of manufactured goods that is hindering the return to normal business activity.

It seems to me that one of the best ways to cure this condition and to start the wheels of industry turning is to move these stocks in the shortest possible time, even at a sacrifice of normal profit.

I believe that, right now, if manufacturers and retailers would co-operate in staging a gigantic "SELL NOW" campaign . . . offering the public worthwhile reductions in prices to move these stocks . . . it would be possible to start a wave of buying that would move these goods in quantity, cause new goods to be ordered, factories to re-open, and men to return to work.

Your organization, with other progressive concerns, can initiate this plan so that others throughout the country will be inspired to do the same. I feel sure your ability to promote a campaign of this character will provide the stimulus required to put this idea over to a flying start and do much to hasten the return of the prosperity we all so much desire.

Sincerely yours,

Henry Bridges

Identity Clue In Ship Suicide

The identity of the mystery man in the blue bathing trunks found shot to death early this week in a stateroom aboard the New York liner, New York, was believed established today by records of the Federal Bureau of Identification in Washington.

Federal authorities notified Boston police that the man's fingerprints correspond to those of George Reynolds, who address on the Federal record card, as of August, 1931, was 1106 East Third avenue, New York city. Reynolds, according to this record, was a native of California.

Boston authorities have telegraphed to New York, asking police there to search for friends or relatives.

Bandits Hold Up 2 'Gas' Stations

Two armed bandits today held up Dorchester and South End filling stations. In both holdups the bandits ripped out telephones.

George Barry, of Nahant, attendant at a gasoline station at Dorchester avenue and Columbia road, Dorchester, was the first victim. Barry told police the bandits approached him with drawn guns and demanded all his cash.

When he produced only $8, one of the bandits grabbed him by the throat, Barry said. They fled when a car pulled into the station.

Shortly after the Dorchester holdup, Albert Millberry, garage attendant on Massachusetts avenue, South End, was robbed of $14 in a similar manner by two bandits.

Four Girls Meet Death by Train

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 8 (AP).—Four girls taking a short cut to a bathing beach along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks were killed today by a passenger train.

The victims, all of New Castle, were Nellie Jaworski, 16; Helen Grabiner, 13; Lena Demko, 16, and Anna Demko, 14, sisters.

Hospital Probes Baby Mixup

MIX-UP'S HAPPY END—With her own baby son, John, Jr., safe in her arms, this proud mother, Mrs. Kathleen Lisenby of Kenrick street, Brighton, says she wants nobody punished for mix-up which sent her home from City Hospital with another mother's new-born daughter.

I found I had left the hospital with somebody else's child, a girl. WANTS NONE FINISHED

"But the babies looked so much alike I can understand how a mistake was made. I hope no one is punished for it, since it all turned out happily in the end." Added Mrs. James Muldoon, Mrs. Lisenby's sister:

"We'd like to have kept the little girl baby, too. She was so cute, and she had the same brown hair and blue eyes as Kathleen's boy."

"I'd have liked a baby niece in addition to my new nephew."

Also cheerful today about the baby mistake was the other mother in the case, Mrs. Mary O'Brien, of Moulton street, Charlestown.

A Boston Evening American reporter visited her in the maternity ward at City Hospital.

SURPRISE TO HER

"I didn't even know my baby daughter had been taken out by Mrs. Lisenby," she said.

"I heard about the mix-up for the first time this morning after everything had been straightened out and my little girl was safe back here."

"It's just as well they didn't tell me sooner, or I'd have been worried almost to death."

"Now it only seems funny to me."

"I'm sure no mix-up like that could go long undetected, because they're so careful here about identifying babies."

Less satisfied was Mrs. O'Brien's husband, James H. O'Brien, a Charlestown WPA worker.

DEBATES ACTION

"That was a pretty awful mistake for the hospital people to make," he said. "It might have turned out worse than it did."

"I don't know just what I can do about it, but I'm going to talk it over with my wife this afternoon when I visit her in the ward."

The mixup occurred when John Lisenby arrived at the hospital to take his wife, Kathleen, 40, and their new-born son home.

They had no sooner left the institution than a head nurse, manire the rounds of the maternity nursery, discovered the baby girl belonging to Mr. O'Brien was missing and the Lisenby boy was still kicking in his crib.

MOTHER'S DISCOVERY

Frantic efforts were made by hospital authorities to find Mrs. Lisenby and inform her of the error.

But she and her husband had gone, not to their own home in Brighton, but to the home of relatives in Newton. Brighton police, enlisted by the hospital, were seeking them in vain when Mrs. Lisenby, after nursing the baby and proudly exhibiting it to admiring kindred, suddenly discovered it was not her son, but a girl.

A hurried telephone call to the hospital straightened out the mix-up and the babies were exchanged immediately.

Sees Million In Jeopardy In Will Fight

SALEM, July 8.—Efforts to break the $1,000,000 will of Charles S. Rea of Salem have been continued "with apparent intent to clutter the record and embarrass executors by tying up the Rea estate," it was charged today in probate court here.

"While delay after delay is occasioned in this case, $1,000,000 in securities is at the mercy of the market," Attorney James H. Sullivan told Judge John V. Phelan.

Sullivan's statement was made after a continuance had been asked by counsel for Lawrence Mitchell of West Medford.

Mitchell is seeking to have the will set aside.

Judge Phelan ruled:

"I will grant a continuance to next Thursday and no longer. I am inclined to think great hardship has been caused executors. A large estate is lying dormant."

$5,112,972 More Grants by PWA

WASHINGTON, July 8 (INS).—Putting PWA back in stride in the drive for national recovery, Secretary of Interior Ickes today announced presidential approval of 56 additional non-federal work projects valued at almost $11,500,000 and situated in 19 states and Hawaii.

The first allocations to be announced by PWA in six days, the new list includes 54 projects which were submitted for approval since the 1932 $1,750,000 apportionment bill was proposed. The projects are valued at $11,362,170 of which $5,112,972 will be put up by PWA in grants and the balance supplied by applicants. No loans are included.

The allocations include: Abington, Mass. schools, $124,740; Kennebunk, Me. school, $77,680; New Ipswich, N. H. school, $58100; and Warwick, R. I. school, $281,000; school, $20,250.

Pittsfield Mills To Open on 2 Shifts

PITTSFIELD, N. H., July 8 (AP).—The Pittsfield Mills today announced 150 employees would start work Monday on a two-shift schedule. The mills have been closed for nine months. The Excelsior Manufacturing Company, which operates the mills, said it was expected orders would permit operation for eight weeks. Officials said reopening would permit elimination of at least 25 heads of families from relief rolls.

Roosevelt Gives Bulkley Praise

minister them so that protection and help of government can be extended to the full."

The President thus exercised at the outset of his journey across the nation to California his previously declared right to intervene in primaries.

Bulkley favored Mr. Roosevelt's court reorganization plan and voted for final passage of the President's executive reorganization measure.

TILL TRAIL SECURITY

People, four and five deep, pressed against the ropes which locked off the speakers' stand in a park as the chief executive erved notice he was pressing on with his program and expected popular support.

"I believe," he said, "that the American people, not afraid of their own capacity to choose forward-looking representatives to run their government, want the same co-operative security and have the same courage to achieve it, in 1938 as in 1788."

"I am sure they know that we will always have a frontier of social problems and that we must always move in to bring law and order to it."

"In that confidence I am pushing on."

"I am sure you will push on with me."

As Mr. Roosevelt said "we always will have a frontier—a frontier of social problems," a little group dressed in the frontier buckskins stood looking up into his face.

FOR 150 YEARS

As soon as his prepared address was completed, he declared:

"I hereby dedicate this great monument, dedicated to 150 years of Americanism."

That was the signal for a flag and bunting draped shield to be pulled from a Lewis and Clark memorial.

The President said, in his introduction, that his "two old friends," Senator Bulkley and Representative Robert T. Secret of Caldwell, O., invited him to make the address several months ago.

This was the only reference to Secret, also a candidate for re-election.

Shortly after his special pulled into a siding it was boarded by Bulkley and White.

Both climbed into Mr. Roosevelt's automobile before it started for Muskingum Park, scene of the President's speech.

TOWN FOR WHITE

Bulkley sat next to the President, White on the other side of Bulkley.

The Presidential motorcade moved slowly through tree shaded streets. At one spot, a group in pioneer and Indian costumes pored over maps.

All along the way, people stood on porches or peered through doors and windows to see the Chief Executive.

A sign that greeted the President as he moved along read:

"The home town is for George White for senator."

Marietta is where White lives.

White, speaking prior to the President's address, traced briefly the early settlement of the northwest and asserted that "he welcomed the nation's President" on behalf of the northwest.

INVADES KENTUCKY

Secret service officers estimated 60,000 to 80,000 persons were in the park for the President's address. A Red Cross unit treated more than 60 persons for heat prostration and minor accidents.

Immediately after the monument was unveiled the President and his party returned to the spe-
ton, Ky., at 11:35 a. m. (E. D. T.)

WHO IS "THE MAN WHO CARES"? Well, take your friend Ed Stafford, for example. You like to go to his house, for you know you will be well entertained. His cigars may not be the most expensive, but they will be good. His silverware may not be ornate, but it will be in excellent taste.

Whatever Ed serves in meat or drink you will enjoy with confidence and relish. You can't remember ever having had indigestion after a meal at Ed's.

Stafford is not a rich man, as you know. But he has found it is both pleasant and profitable to seek, within his means, the better things of living. It helps him in the opinion of others. And, what's more, it helps him in his own good opinion of himself. Stafford is a "man who cares".

Thomas Carstairs, whose family tradition was a distinguished background in Colonial days, a man of high attainments, and a generous host, he became the friend of Washington, Jefferson and other notables. In 1788, Carstairs' talent for hospitality led him to open an establishment in Philadelphia for purveying spirituous liquors to "men of repute".

Since Thomas Carstairs' time, 2 generations after, the generation of his family has continued in his high traditions.

The Carstairs Whiskey at your neighborhood store or favorite bar today keeps faith with the time-honored Carstairs standards. A superbly balanced blend of fine whiskeys, Carstairs is rich and full in flavor; yet exceptionally light in body. You may drink or serve it always with confidence and relish.

TRY FOR A Free ART COURSE

Copy this girl and send us your drawing - perhaps you'll win a COMPLETE FEDERAL COURSE FREE! This contest is for amateurs, so if you like to draw do not hesitate to enter.

Prizes for Five Best Drawings — FIVE COMPLETE ART COURSES FREE, including drawing outfits. (Value of each course, $215.00.)

FREE! Each contestant whose drawing shows sufficient merit will receive a grading and advice as to whether he or she has, in our estimation, artistic talent worth developing.

Today design, color and illustrating influence the sale of most merchandise. Trained commercial artists have, therefore, become important in industry. They are in demand, — well paid — machines can never displace them. Artistic talent is comparatively scarce. If you can draw, why waste this rare gift? Train yourself to do work for which nature has fitted you and which few people can do. Success nowadays comes easier to those who develop natural ability. We have trained many young men and women now capable of earning up to $5,000 yearly as artists. Use this opportunity to test your talent. Read the rules and send us your drawing.

RULES: This contest open only to amateurs, 16 years old or more. Professional commercial artists and Federal students are not eligible. 1. Make drawing of girl 5 1/4 inches high, on paper 7 inches high. Draw only the girl, no lettering. 2. Use only pencil or pen. 3. We return no drawings. 4. Print your name, address, age, occupation on back of drawing. 5. All drawings must be received by July 30th, 1918. Prizes will be awarded for drawings best in proportion and artistry by Federal Schools Faculty.

Vandenberg Asks Light on Official Incomes

GRAND JURORS MAY, JULY 8 (AP)—United States Senator Vandenberg, Michigan, today proposed legislation to require that all government officials be required to make public the amount of income they derive from such sources as salaries, personal holdings or private activities.

The Senator said that he was proposing legislation to prevent the public from "confidential exploitation." "We constantly hear ugly rumors about 'leaks' that have been capitalized for public profit," Vandenberg said. "None of them ever comes to proof. Most of them probably are untrue. The best protection which honest officials can have, in such circumstances, is a publicity requirement, with a criminal penalty attached, which makes the whole record public."

He said that if incomes of public officials are enhanced by private personal services at the expense of the public, it is a matter of public interest. "If it was logical for the President to warn all federal employees against stock gambling, it is logical to require a public record if this gambling occurs," he said.

Allen Ranked No. 1 Hurler in Baseball

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—After looking over all of the All-Stars out at Cincinnati, our favorite ball player still is cantankerous Johnny Allen of the Cleveland Allens.

Nat only is John pitching the national baseball having won 27 of his last 29 games, but he was the only pitcher to carry his own private hat to the all-star game. The reason being, of course, that his friend and also considers himself an exceptionally dangerous hitter.

"What I saw of those guys today," he said after the glorified game, "I think I'll pitch a few more years in the American League and then round out my career as a hitter in the National."

That's Allen. He really thinks like that, and he never yet has cared who was in search when he spoke his piece. He is a grand fellow, a man who would have been a great pitcher in the National League or the American League. He is a grand fellow, a man who would have been a great pitcher in the National League or the American League.

MR. BOSTON

Rockingham Ends
Political Drive

Agawam Basket
Fund Race

—By JACK CONWAY—

ROCKINGHAM PARK has adjusted its various differences with officials representing the State of New Hampshire, and is ready to open its 18-day meeting on Monday.

Mr. Boston

Racing will go before the voters in New Hampshire next fall, and as a result the turf sport is being handled with gloves by public officials as well as by those persons associated with the track.

When Rockingham Park readily consented to sacrifice the breakage following a ruling by the attorney general's office, the racing pot, which has been boiling over, quieted down. By giving up the breakage Rockingham Park will lose thousands of dollars, but it was felt that it was better to make this concession than it was to jeopardize the future of racing in New Hampshire.

New Hampshire was the first of the New England States to legalize racing. Rhode Island and Massachusetts followed the lead of the Granite State.

Lou Smith was at Suffolk yesterday, and he declared he has plenty of fine horses available for his Rockingham meeting. Many of these thoroughbreds are shipping in from Delaware, New York and Chicago, and have not previously raced in New England this year.

With a general pickup in business, Rockingham Park expects to have a successful meeting financially despite the fact it has given up the breakage.

Basket Fund at Agawam

THERE WILL be a race for the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser at Agawam today. The share of the mutual take that ordinarily goes to the Association will be turned over to the Basket Fund.

There will be a steeplechase offering on today's card at Agawam, and this will help to increase the attendance at the up-state track. People have shown an interest in steeplechase racing. While the betting on these events has not been heavy the people who have turned out to witness them have ended up making wagers on other events on the card.

The Agawam meeting will close tomorrow, and it is expected to show a profit of $100,000. The mutual handle for the meeting has been up 15 per cent over a year ago.

Steve Casey to Train Here

STEVE CASEY will train at a local camp for his defense of his world's heavyweight wrestling championship against Dick Shikat at Fenway Park on July 19. The big Celt has shown brilliant wrestling form since he decisively conquered Yvon Robert in their recent bout, and is anxious to pin Shikat who has two victories to his credit over Dan O'Mahony.

It was Shikat who defeated O'Mahony when the latter was world's champion. He repeated his feat recently at the Garden. I thought Shikat was guilty of unnecessary roughness in his last meeting with Danne. He wrecked O'Mahony by throwing him head first over the ropes and towards the stone floor of the Garden.

Danne struck the floor with the side of his head, and suffered a bad gash behind his left ear. He also received an injury to his left hip.

Wrestling, of course, isn't a Sunday school game, but I do think Shikat violated the rules of fair play in his last meeting with Danne. It was only as a result of a good break from Fate that O'Mahony didn't receive an injury that would have confined him to a hospital for several months.

It will be interesting to see how the powerful Casey fares against Shikat. I talked with O'Mahony, who has wrestled both Shikat and Casey, and he tells me his fellow Irishman is stronger than the German.

Red Sox Get Another Pennant Test

THE RED SOX will receive another severe pennant test in the series with the Yankees that opens today.

When Joe Cronin's team gets within striking distance of the league lead, they usually clash with the Yankees. In the past, these games have found the Yankees the stronger ball club.

If the Red Sox get a pitching break in the present series, they have an excellent chance to close in on the league leaders. The Sox certainly possess plenty of batting punch, while they have proved they can play better ball at Fenway Park than any place else. The short left field fence has proved helpful to the Sox sluggers.

I look for large crowds at Fenway Park today and tomorrow, while the Sunday game is expected to attract a capacity gathering.

The Sox will later be called upon to meet Cleveland here. By the time the club starts on the road again, Boston fans should have the answer as to whether the Sox are going to be in the pennant fight to the finish.

The terrific hitting of the Sox this season gives Joe Cronin's outfit an even chance with the Yankees in the present series, provided the pitchers do their bit.

The Yankees are once more the favorites to win the American League pennant.

Sox Intent on Sweep Of Yankee Series

JOE DIMAGGIO BILL DICKEY LOU GEHRIG
YANKEES' "MURDERERS' ROW," RESONANT AGAIN AFTER LONG SILENCE.

By WALTER KILEY

Plenty of fireworks were left over from the recent holidays to explode into a miniature battle as the warring Red Sox and Yankees go blood and thunder after today's opening skirmish at Fenway Park.

There's no love lost between these age-old foes, and anything short of a clean sweep of the three game series will be counted failure by a couple of fellows named Joe, Cronin and McCarthy.

While Cronin is willing to let bygones be bygones, and to forget the recent Yankee Stadium fracas in his greater concern over lifting his flock to the pinnacle of the league fold, a victory today, another tomorrow and the third Sunday would do more to assuage his inner fire than any apologies which will ever be forthcoming.

If the Boston team is to prove a serious factor in the long, elusive chase for the American League flag, it must prove itself this week.

Record books of other years show how the Red Sox have folded when the heat was turned on full blast and the Yankees' opponents in the critical moments.

This time the old home town wants to be shown. It will hold off judgment until after the final game of Sunday.

The race has now simmered down to three outstanding teams.

The Cleveland Indians and Yankees are locked in a top place tie, the Sox are two and one-half games behind.

Jack Wilson or Jim Bagby gets the call for the Sox today, all depending on the condition of "Black Jack's" arm.

Not until game time will Manager Cronin make his definite pitching selection.

If Wilson's arm shows no improvement, he will be shelved to await another day, and Bagby, who has turned in several glittering performances recently, will get the call.

McCarthy has decided to use Spurgeon "Spud" Chandler, sensational rookie right-hander from University of Georgia. Chandler, a six-footer, has won seven games and lost only one in his first full year in the majors.

4 'DEUCES' IN 15 MINUTES

Manager Joe Cronin has high hopes of his Red Sox overwhelming the Yankees before Sunday. The crippled Bees are over in New York challenging the Giants. Within the short space of fifteen minutes, there were four deuces made at the 7th hole at Essex yesterday afternoon. Bobby Hood missed an ace by eight inches, but the best he got on the hole was a halve, for Joe Lynch clipped into the cup from the fringe of the green. Then Carl Nettelbladt came within a couple of inches of duplicating Bobby Hood's iron shot and holed the putt. And Teddy Quinn, Riverside, made the fourth deuce by running in a 36 foot putt. Bill Dickey, of the Yankees, is the "ace" quail shooter among ball players. In the club finals of the four ball championship at New Bedford, Dave Whiteside and Eliot Taber put together a better ball of 31 and were five up at the turn on Billy Bales and Dana Gillingham. The lovers are still yelling "We were robbed." They figured to do the stealing with their handicaps but got crossed up. Bill Stewart will train his world champion Black Hawks at Urbana, Ill., this fall. The Hawks will use the University of Illinois rink. Last year, Stewart laid the ground work for the winning of the Stanley Cup at Muskegon, Mich. New rumors are current that Burt Shotton will succeed Frankie Frisch as manager of the Cardinals. Had he heeded the late John J. McGraw, Frisch, and not Bill Terry, would now be managing the Giants. GRIMES.

Pate Rates Budge Greatest Court Star Ever

NEW YORK, July 8 (INS)—Barring accidents, the surest bet in the world of sports today is that the United States will retain the Davis Cup this year.

Who says so? Why, Walter Pate, non-playing captain of the American Davis Cup team, who is thoroughly familiar with the game of every leading tennis player in the world.

What makes him think so? "Because," said Pate today, "we have, not only the greatest tennis player in the world today, but the greatest tennis player who ever lived. I refer, of course, to Don Budge."

That flat statement covers a lot of time and territory. Wasn't he overlooking, perhaps, such fellows as Bill Tilden, Norman Brookes, Tony Wilding, Edworthy Viney, Rene Lacoste and the Doherty brothers.

BUDGE INVINCIBLE

"Not at all," he insisted. "They were all wonders, especially Tilden, but Big Bill never saw the day he could beat Don Budge."

"Budge could have beaten Tilden at his best, because Budge hits harder and faster, and he can maintain a blistering pace that no other man can match. The world never saw a man who can sustain a terrific attack as long as Budge can. The California redhead is simply unbeatable."

"He will surely win us two singles matches in any Davis Cup competition and he and Gene Mako should win the doubles, thus clinching the cup, no matter what our No. 2 player, whoever he may be, does."

Either Sydney Wood or Bobby Riggs will fill the No. 2 singles bill. Next year, however, may tell a different story. Listen again to brother Pate:

TROUBLE IN FUTURE

"Our players dominated the world at Wimbledon, but I saw enough there to convince me we shall have trouble in the future. The Europeans are adopting our fast-hitting game and they have some prospects who will develop into great stars."

Tennis runs in cycles, you know. First the English ruled with the Doherty brothers. Then it was the Australians with Brooks and Wilding. Then we had Tilden and Little Bill Johnston. Then came the French with Lacoste, Borotra and others, followed by the English with Perry and Austin.

"Now we rule again. Nobody can say who will be on top next year, but so long as we have Budge we won't worry much."

Tony Plansky Hitting .456

The "Babe Ruth of the Cape Cod League," Tony Plansky, Bourne's plant infielder, is up to his old tricks, hitting and fielding on all fours.

While his Bourne nine is just now bidding down the cellar berth in the Cranberry circuit, Plansky is battling for .456 in the four tilts he has played.

Next to Falmouth's Myron Ruckstuhl, the oldest player in line for service in the popular South Shore loops, Plansky is serving his seventh straight summer season with Bourne. Ruckstuhl has been on the Falmouth roster for 16 seasons.

During the school season Plansky, a South Boston product, is coach of wrestling and track at the exclusive Williams College.

In the six seasons he has been on the Bourne club, Plansky has made a place on every All-Cape team selected over this period. He has yet to bat under 300.

He is the most popular player on the South Shore, receiving lots of attention wherever he appears.

4 New Major Prospects Loom In Coast Loop

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8 (AP)—Pacific Coast League baseball, passing the halfway mark of a red-hot pennant race, has produced a handful of youngsters whose sensational performances stamp them as future major league timber of the lines, too.

Outstanding among the prospects is Fred Hutchinson, big, loose-jointed 18-year-old youth who broke into the Seattle club's lineup this spring as a regular pitcher in his first year in organized baseball.

Veteran scouts class him as the "find" of the season, one destined to star in the big leagues before he reaches his majority.

Freddie made his Coast League debut against San Diego in the second game of the season. He was yanked after one-third of an inning, charged with three runs. Discouraged? He came back to win five straight; was responsible for 12 runs in 78 innings, and earned run average of 1.05.

Two other pitching prospects have poked their heads above the brush. One is Manuel Salvo, husky right-handed fireball artist of San Diego. Lou Test, Hollywood left-hander, is the other.

Salvo had a trial with the Boston Red Sox two years ago. This season he had a string of two scoreless innings and allowed but one run in 33 innings. Test needs polishing but has a fast ball and good curve.

San Francisco's Seals are cursing two crack youngsters, shortstop Bill Lillard and outfielder Brooks Holder.

Lillard, still in his teens, is hitting .339 in his first season in class AA ball. He's the younger brother of Gene Lillard, who went to the Cubs as a home run hitting infielder, failed to make the grade and is trying to climb back as a pitcher for Los Angeles.

Holder, a .331 hitter, appears ready for a big league trial, although his team mate, Lillard, may be a year away.

Ailing Maxie Back in Germany

CHERBOURG, July 8 (AP)—Max Schmelling, arriving today aboard the Bremen en route to Germany, said he still was suffering severe pains from back injuries sustained in his ill-fated championship fight with Joe Louis.

He said he would go to a hospital upon his arrival at Bremen, and that he would meet either, James Braddock or Tommy Farr in September if he made a quick recovery.

Joe Walsh Sent To Hartford by B's

Bob Quinn of the Bees announced this morning that Joe "Tweet" Walsh of Brookline, who recently returned to the Bees after a knee operation, was sent to Hartford club to give him a chance to work regularly.

the case under advisement until tomorrow.

"The inside dope," Moriarty said, "in this case is that Carter and Van Ree had reached an agreement that in a certain race at agawam Park, in which both men had horses entered, Van Ree's horse was to win."

"But Van Ree's horse staggered at the far turn and was unable to win and there was nothing for Carter's jockey to do but go ahead and win."

"With respect to the cause of this assault, Carter is no better than the defendant and in my opinion both men were engaged in fixing races and should not be allowed to have any connection with any race track anywhere."

Carter was attacked in his hotel room the night of June 13.

Miske's Son

Wins by Knockout

NEW YORK, July 8 (INS)—Knowing that Death was about to count ten over him, as the result of an ailment from previous boxing injuries, Billy Miske went into the ring against Jack Dempsey for the little money it would provide his young wife and son.

That was at Benton Harbor 15 years ago. The leavelyweight Miske took the beating bravely for two rounds and went down in the third. He was whipped, but content he had earned some money. He lived only a few years.

In a Fort Hamilton ring last night, sports followers seemed to see a gray shadow in one corner as a husky kid set himself for a four-round battle in one of the preliminaries. The kid measured off his opponent, Jack Babiam, of New York, and in 1:35 of the first round went back to his corner the victor.

The kid was Billy Miske, Jr.

Terming Governor Hurley's administration "vacillating, weak and hypocritical," former Gov. James M. Curley today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Curley flayed Hurley and Hurley's administration in vitriolic terms.

He charged that Hurley had "for 18 months wooed" the Republican party.

"In the language of the Boston Post," he asserted, "he (Governor Hurley) is a man long on promises but short in their fulfillment."

"The attempts at this time to purchase re-election by a false program of ill-timed and hastily conceived budget appropriations savors of a death-bed repentance which shocks the decencies and sensibilities of the people of the state."
